Colline du Colombier - Cadole "Sous le pommier"

In Burgundy, the cadole is a stone hut that served as a shelter for peasants. These little two-person houses offer a panoramic view of the pastures as far as the eye can see. Built on stilts from wood, steel and canvas, they blend into the landscape, tracing the gentle curves of the hillside. The contemporary interior design, dedicated to comfort, is an extension of the natural environment. The accommodation comprises: a large living room of 65m², a fully-equipped kitchen, a bed or twin beds, a wood-burning stove, a shower room, no television and no WiFi.
