Colline du Colombier - Cadole "Sur Vallons"

In Burgundy, the cadole is a stone hut that served as a shelter for peasants. These little two-person houses offer a panoramic view of the pastures as far as the eye can see. Built on stilts from wood, steel and canvas, they blend into the landscape, tracing the gentle curves of the hillside. The contemporary interior design, dedicated to comfort, is an extension of the natural environment. The accommodation comprises: a large 70m² living room, a fully-equipped kitchen, a bed or twin beds, a large 30m² suspended terrace with views over the valleys, a wood-burning stove, a shower room, no television and no WiFi.
